NLB GREATEST POSTER IN THE LABORERS

President Issues Executive Order Giving National Labor Board More Definite Status, With Additional Powers to Adjust Industrial Disputes and Conflicts Over Code Interpretations.

By Making Order Retroactive, President Clears Way for Attorney General to Proceed with Weirton Case—Law Will Be Tested as Result—Let's Reactionary Employers Know That NLB Is Not to Be Trifled With.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15 (LNS)—The National Labor Board has been given a more definite status, and its powers and functions defined in an executive order issued by the President. The action is preliminary to the Attorney General giving consideration to the case of the Weirton Steel Co., but leaves open the question of the adequacy of the previous record of the board. The order, which was signed by the President, states that the NLB is to be considered as a part of the executive branch of the government. It also states that the board is to be given the power to adjust industrial disputes and conflicts over code interpretations. The order is retroactive, meaning that it applies to all cases pending before the board at the time it was issued. This move is seen as a clear signal to employers that the NLB is not to be trifled with. The Attorney General is expected to proceed with the Weirton case, which has been a major point of contention between the board and the steel company. The order also gives the board the power to adjust industrial disputes and conflicts over code interpretations, which is a significant increase in its authority. The board has been working to establish its credibility and the President's action is a major step in that direction.

St. Lawrence Treaty Due for Opposition in U. S. Senate

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14 (LNS)—The St. Lawrence Treaty, which was signed by the United States and Canada, is expected to face opposition in the U. S. Senate. The treaty provides for the construction of a dam and power plant on the St. Lawrence River. It also provides for the sharing of the power generated by the dam. The treaty has been signed by the President, but it must be ratified by the Senate. There are concerns that the treaty will be opposed by some members of the Senate, particularly those who are concerned about the impact of the dam on the environment and the fishing industry.

C. L. U. to Cooperate in Plan for Roosevelt Birthday Ball

President Philip T. Place and Delegate Thomas J. Magner and L. M. Magner, who were named as consultants to the Central Labor Union to assist Portland's general committee in making arrangements for celebrating President Roosevelt's birthday, will be the high spot of the City Ball on Thursday evening, January 25th.

Through Matthew W. Hill, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, who is secretary of the Labor Division of the general committee in charge of the nation-wide celebration of President Roosevelt's birthday, as a benefit for the Warm Springs Foundation, the C. L. U. has been asked to sponsor the ball of to cooperate with other agencies. The latter plan was decided upon, and the committee asked the union to give a large attendance of members of local unions.

All of the proceeds will go into the fund. Donating will bring from 5 p. m. to 11 p. m. From 11 p. m. to 12:15 p. m. the local speakers will bring to the dancers a description of the festivities in the White House. President will be heard in a short address.

Robert A. Bennett is chairman of the joint committee representing the general committee organized to conduct the festivities, and the C. L. U. will be assisted by representatives of civic, fraternal and military organizations.

"Dan" Collins, of Rye, Carmen, is speaker at Central Labor Union.

Delegates who attended the January 1st meeting of the Portland Central Labor Union listened to a most interesting talk by Dan Collins, of Rye, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, who spent several days last week in Portland, as an organizing campaign among the employees of the Portland Central Railroad.

Mr. Collins is a devoted speaker, and it was more than 15 years' experience as an organizer in a field covering the entire country, that he has to his credit.

It is a course in his talk, Mr. Collins drew a picture of the labor movement as a career of a century ago, when first became active, and the present time, that time, in which he was willing to make trouble as a sacrifice to bring to better a better condition. "It is different, now, when, because of changed conditions, the rank and file of working people are less patient about taking an active part in their union."

Mr. Collins said the workers are not only more active, but they are also more organized. The principal reason for this, he asserted, is the fact of losing their jobs, while others look upon the payment of union dues as a hardship, not realizing the benefits that come from being organized.

The speaker said central bodies have an important duty to perform in the organization of new local unions, and the need of the organization among railway car workers, at whose request he said he had come to Portland.

It was voted to postpone the election of officers until the January meeting to be held on Thursday evening, January 18, and the secretary was directed to send notices of this change to all the delegates.

White Collar Workers Get "Break" on Jobs as City Enumerators

A guarantee of three weeks' work to 121 men had women for the most part office workers who had been unemployed for some time as the result of the business depression is looked upon as quite a "break," and the only regret is that it is not just last but the first of February.

These 121 temporary jobs were made possible through the Civil Works Administration, which provides for conducting a business and real estate survey of the entire city.

Of the 121 enumerators, two-thirds are men, and the others are women. The men are from the Portland Police Department, representing the Department of Commerce.

Urges Enthusiastic Support for Labor's 12-Point Program

The 12-point program of social justice legislation which President Green has outlined in his address to the American Federation of Labor, is urged as an expression of high principle and a realistic example of the union as applied to labor legislation.

The 12 points referred to by President Green are: 1. A minimum wage law; 2. A maximum hour law; 3. A child labor law; 4. A law against the employment of women in night work; 5. A law against the employment of women in dangerous work; 6. A law against the employment of women in unhealthy work; 7. A law against the employment of women in unwholesome work; 8. A law against the employment of women in unclean work; 9. A law against the employment of women in unhygienic work; 10. A law against the employment of women in unhealthful work; 11. ## Georgia Textile Wks. Go to School at End of Work Day

The question of what Americans will do with their increased leisure under the New Deal has been answered, at least in part, by workers in a Georgia mill. They are going to school.

General Hugh H. Johnson has been informed that employees at the Cartersville, Ga., mill organized a school after working hours, and one-third of the employees have voluntarily registered and are educating themselves.

The school will be held in the mill's gymnasium, and the teachers will be mill workers. The school will be held in the mill's gymnasium, and the teachers will be mill workers.

PLANS FOR OBSERVING PRESIDENT'S BIRTHDAY STARTED BY MILLINOCKET C. L. U. DEVELOPED INTO COMMUNITY AFFAIR

Plans Completed for Holding Community Ball in Gymnasium of Starns High School on Tuesday Evening, Jan. 30—Eight Piece Orchestra to Furnish Music for Concert and Dancing.

Members of the Central Labor Union, after cooperating with other organizations to observe President Roosevelt's birthday with a grand ball to be held in the gymnasium of Starns High School on Tuesday evening, January 30.

It was in response to a call issued by the Labor Division of the Committee on Observing the President's Birthday, composed of 50 prominent men in all walks of life, who sponsored the idea of holding birthday balls throughout the country that the Millinocket C. L. U. was prompted to start arrangements, but desirous of conducting the affair on a larger scale, the cooperation of civic and other organizations was sought, and it has been decided to make it a community affair. The object of the observance of the President's birthday is two-fold; first, that the event will be in recognition of the great amount of interest which the President has manifested in the half of the working people of this country since taking office, and for the purpose of raising funds for a permanent endowment for the Warm Springs Foundation, for the treatment of infantile paralysis, in which institution the President is greatly interested.

As at first announced by the general committee in charge of the national observance of the President's birthday, the price of tickets was set at $1.00 each, one-half of this amount to be applied to the endowment and the balance to be kept for defraying local expenses. But a later communication received from Matthew Wolf, secretary of the Labor Division, stated organizations were at liberty to set their own price of admission, and apply the difference between the receipts and local expenditures to the Foundation.

The local committee in charge of the birthday ball, to celebrate the birthday of the President, has decided on a price of admission at 50 cents for men and 25 cents for women.

According to Frank M. Perry, vice president of the Maine State Federation of Labor in charge of the Portland District, and chairman of the committee on printing, the event is creating considerable interest among the townspeople and that a large attendance is anticipated.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by an eight-piece orchestra, and the committee in charge has selected a band, representative labor, civic, fraternal and other organizations, feel confident that a goodly support will be realized for the Foundation.

The chairman of the committee in charge is H. A. McAllister; J. M. Perry, Dr. Gromley and John Ward make up the committee on printing.

In charge of the tickets are Fred Townsend, Anthony Baskin and Edward Albert. Percy McAllister is in charge of the entertainment program.

Burgess Parley has been selected as floor manager, and Frank O. Deary is treasurer of the general committee. The eight affairs members of trade unions a splendid opportunity to manifest their appreciation for the untiring efforts made by the President on behalf of the workers since he took office last March, and members of the committee representing the Central Labor Union feel confident that local unionists will be present in large numbers and by this means demonstrate their friendship, loyalty and appreciation to the President, and their desire to assist in the maintenance of the institution which is doing so much in the treatment of children crippled by infantile paralysis.

RUMFORD

Progress of Movement in Rumford as Seen by Local Secretary

Among members of the Labor movement in Rumford, progress has been made over the progress made during the past few months, or since the National Recovery Act was passed, is Secretary Jeffrey Paradis of Journeymen Barbers Local 101.

In his letter to the editor, Mr. Paradis says his lack of experience as a local secretary has made it difficult for him to put news items into shape for publication, but that he and members of his local union are greatly enthused over the progress made in the local labor movement.

The local union has been the first to announce its plans for the observance of the President's birthday, and set the price of admission at 50 cents for men and 25 cents for women.

Machinists Get 7 p. c. Raise Under NRA, But Lose in Total

Members of Sagadahoc Lodge No. 728, of the International Association of Machinists, while having benefited to the extent of a seven per cent increase in wages under the National Recovery Act, complain that because of being compelled to lay off ten days a week to help within the 40-hour week receive 7 1/2 a week less than they did prior to the adjustment.

The fact that no extra help under the new arrangement is also a matter that causes considerable dissatisfaction.

Members of Lodge 728 had hoped that conditions would be improved under the NRA, and they feel strongly that all Sunday repair work should be exempt, thereby making it possible to bring their wages up, to where they were prior to the new arrangement.

The following officers were elected at the meeting of the regular monthly meeting held in Community House, on Wednesday evening, December 18th:

President, John Dourdy; vice president, Howard Nash; recording secretary, R. A. McCann; financial secretary, Walter Hinder; treasurer, Harry Wallace.

Trustees—Warren Goodwin, Fredland Goddard and Walter Foster.

Auditors—Warren Goodwin and F. A. Goodwin.

The regular meetings of Lodge 728 are held Wednesday evenings at seven o'clock, at Community House.

Depression Has Not Retarded Progress of Granite Cutters

While poor business during the past few years has seriously affected the granite industry and caused a goodly number of its members to be out of employment, the Granite Cutters' International Union has kept its membership intact, writes Secretary J. D. Crabtree, and "it has loyalty and maintained its relations with State and national organizations with which it is in good standing."

"The regular meetings of the future will offer some improvement, however, placed up in a hopeful attitude, and two look to the spring months, and construction work will have taken on sufficient proportions to warrant increased employment."

At the meeting of Local No. 4, held in the hall of the Granite Cutters' International Union, on Wednesday evening, December 18th, the following officers were elected and installed:

President, Alvin Balthasar; vice president, Howard Nash; recording secretary, J. D. Crabtree; financial secretary, William J. Duggan.

Auditors—John D. Crabtree and M. P. Pritchett.

The regular meetings of Local No. 4 are held on the first Monday after the 1st of the month, in K. of P. Hall.

Did Recovery Act Arrive Too Late?

The Recovery Act was far more than an act of God. It was a test of our wisdom, an appeal to our reason. If it has not been as successful as it might have been, it has been as successful as we could expect. The "New Deal" is an attempt to save the Recovery Act of capitalism by abating its own labor organizations and the Communist desire. The individualist rebels against it.

Harold A. Lasker, who has one of the finest minds of our time, fears it has come too late. He is afraid we have lost the battle, and we are not as well as we should be. He is not as well as we should be. He is not as well as we should be.

He is not as well as we should be. He is not as well as we should be. He is not as well as we should be. He is not as well as we should be.
